ing for Book of Mormon Data . . .

Campeche, southern Mexico The expedition will return some time in March.

Accompanying Dr. Christensen will be Wesley W. Ricks, teaching assistant in the Archaeology Dept. and two graduate assistants, Carl Jones and Alfred L. Bush.

Aguaqual was excavated in part in 1948 by Dr. Jakeman and it is believed that this site dates back to Book of Mormon times. Progress reports from the field will be issued and published in both the UAS Newsletter and the Daily Universe during the course of the expedition.

Former expeditions by Brigham Young University were conducted in 1900, 1948, 1954, and 1959, making this the fifth BYU Archaeological Expedition to Book of Mormon lands.

THE DEVIL MAY CARE

"Amazing," said the reporter. "That's right, sonny. I just tell them to drive like the Devil (that's me, naturally) and they most generally listen to me." But that surely not all of them listen to you," said the eager Daily Universe reporter.

SATAN GLEAMS
"Course not, my boy," said Satan, and a gleam came into his eye. "I've got other ways of knocking off those college students."

"You've got to remember that the majority of them are sharp drivers . . . plenty sharp! It's not easy for me to knock off as many as I do every year."

By now the reporter was scribbling wildly and Satan, warming up to the subject, was rubbing his hands in glee.

"They're fast when it comes to reflexes, but I out-smart 'em," he roared. "They try to leave as soon as they can. They never safety check their cars. They drive all night long to get home, and that's when I work best," he hoarsely whispered.

DEATH WHISPERS
"Faster, faster, a little faster, I whisper to them. Soon they're over the speed limit. Then . . . then I make their eyelids heavy: 'Keep going, keep going, I say. By then the scene is set.'"

"When I can, I make the roads slick. The slicker, the better," he chuckled with a hideous grin.

"They take little chances at my urging. The rest is history."

"I'm especially going to be watching for college kids this year, my little man," he growled. "You better be watching for me!"

Satan then snarled and disappeared in a puff of smoke.

Prexy Picks Two Justices For Student High Bench

Fred Lundberg has been chosen chief justice with Robert Lord as an associate justice. Lundberg has resigned his position as head of the Inter-Organization Council Court.

The new court has been called a "big step forward in student government at Brigham Young University" by Crockett, who also said that BYU is one of the few universities in the nation with such a system. Crockett estimated that it would take about one year for the court to become thoroughly settled.

Work on forming a supreme court was started when the setting up such a court was included in the Student Constitution passed last spring.

Earlier this year the Senate set up a committee headed by Lundberg to study plans for organizing the court. Using recommendations of this committee the Senate last week passed a bill allowing for three justices.

The bill also outlined many of the powers of the court.

New Chief Justice Lundberg is a junior political science major from Oakland, Calif. He is currently working as an administrative intern with Provo City.

Lundberg is married and a member of the BYU Ninth Ward bishopric.

Associate Justice Lord is also a political science major. He has been working on the IOC Court, Lord is a senior from Provo.

Two of the three justices in the new Student Supreme Court were appointed Friday by Webb Crockett, ASBYU president. The appointments remain to be ratified by the Student Senate.

Paper Planners to Meet

Universe staff Christmas party will be held 4 p.m. Monday combined with short staff meeting in Universe office, basement of Clark Student Service Center.

Picture of staffers present will also be taken and printed in final edition of Universe for autumn quarter on Wednesday. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided, with special announcements to be made.

Department Posts English Results In Junior Proficiency Examination

Results of the Junior English Proficiency Examination for autumn quarter have been posted in the halls outside of 240 and 201 McKay Bldg.

Twenty percent of the 429 junior students who took the examination last October did not pass.

THE ENGLISH Proficiency examination for winter quarter will be given in Eyring Science Center on Jan. 11, 1958 as follows:

Initials of last name	Room No.	Time
A-C	260	8-10:30 a.m.
D-H	270	8:15-10:45 a.m.
I-M	230	9:15-11:45 a.m.
N-R	260	1-3:10 p.m.
S-Z	270	1-1:35-4:45 p.m.

All students who plan to graduate from Brigham Young University after the summer of 1958 are required to pass the examination, which should be taken the quarter after a student has completed ninety quarter hours of credit if he has completed his requirement in freshman English.

WINTER QUARTER'S examination will differ from those previously given, and from that described in "English Standards at BYU."

It will consist of 35 minutes of writing a short essay, and the rest of the time will be devoted to an objective test of the student's knowledge of characteristics of effective writing, including such points as spelling, grammar, paragraphing, and emphasis.

ACCORDING TO Samuel C. Monson, less than a third of junior class has taken the required exam. "Some students decided they were exempt from the examination because they had more than 110 quarter hours of credit," he said.

"It is to the student's advantage to take the examination as soon as he is eligible, because anyone who fails must then take a remedial class and that necessary delay might postpone his graduation," informed Monson.

BYU Applicants Near Complete Donation Drive

Blood drive quota at Brigham Young University was virtually reached with donations of 414 pints to the American Red Cross Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

AFROTC and Sponsor Corps units on campus conducted the drive on the request of administration officials.

Thirty applicants were rejected by examining officers because of colds, infections and too-recent eating, bringing total applicants to 444. Quota was 450 pints.

Sponsor Lieut. Beverly Armstrong and Cadet Kirk Ellsworth were chairmen of the three-day drive conducted in the basement of Eyring Science Center.

"Ever get the feeling lower campus isn't typical of the university, somehow?"

Finalists in Contest Perform in January

Final judging for 18 contestants who survived the semi-finals in the on-campus women's talent contest will be shortly after the beginning of winter quarter, according to Marilyn Neeley, of Student Program Bureau, sponsors of the event.

Participants who are the winners of contests held in every on-campus dormitory for women.

Time and place of the contest will be announced later, and Miss Neeley, and all students will be urged to attend.

Security Requests Drivers Adhere to Regulations

With the opening of the autumn quarter, the annual term bring a number of announcements from the Traffic Office—announcements which should have been made at the time of the summer session.

The parking regulations will be enforced during the final examinations. Students are encouraged to observe regulations strictly. It will be a great deal more usual, and by cooperation the accident problem will be reduced.

Parking permits which expire at the close of this quarter may be renewed starting Monday.

New state licenses are being issued and upon receipt of the new plates those registered with the Traffic Office are requested to report the new number immediately.

With regard to registration for the winter quarter it will be necessary for only those students with cars to clear at traffic and security desk. It will not be necessary for those without cars to clear in order to complete their registration.

Accident Rate Prompts Proposal by Committee

PROVING, (W)—Tougher uniform requirements for licensing drivers are being proposed by the committee to reduce the staggering 10,000 traffic deaths a year.

A proposal called for all under 18 years of age to have an approved high school course and for programs to be made for adults at night.

RECOMMENDATION WAS made at the closing session of a public officials' conference.

traffic safety conference sponsored by the President's Committee for Highway Safety.

Some 400 delegates from the 48 states drafted an emergency 10-point traffic safety program which will be presented for public support in four regional meetings next spring.

Other priority recommendations included:

—Expanded research into causes of accidents and congestion.

—Stepped up improvement of highways, utilizing modern design standards such as control of access.

—Official coordinating committees headed by the governors with full-time public information programs.

GOV. ABRAHAM RIBICOFF of Connecticut, chairman of the conference, advised the delegates to adopt the program for their own state needs and to present it forcefully to their governors for action.

He said: "There is only one man in each state who can give this program the push it must have—and that is the chief executive."

Ribicoff, nationally recognized for his own action to enforce better safety on the highways, said the 40,000 annual death toll can be cut in half if state and local governments do their jobs.

Polygraph Fails to Register Lies, But Detects Emotional Response

by Richard Kramer
Daily Universe Feature Editor
It's getting so you can't even lie effectively anymore," comically stated Karen White, a Daily Universe Feature Writer.

In a recent session with Brigham Young University's own lie detector or Kerley polygraph as it's called scientifically, Miss White readily volunteered to be the guinea pig for the benefit of the story. The test was administered by Prof. Frank R. Wilkinson of the Psychology Department.

MISS WHITE was first placed in a soft-cushioned chair, then a pneumometer was taped around her wrist, this records the rate and depths of breathing, then a sphygmomanometer was wrapped around her right arm. This measured the blood pressure and is possibly the most important.

On the palm of her left hand two dots of electro jelly on which is placed a hand electrode which registers changes of resistance of the skin to electric current passage.

AFTER THE initial adjustments were made the questioning began. "By the type of questions you ask," commented Wilkinson, "you can tell which questions a person shows most emotional response."

He also stated that the device is not permissible to be used in the courts, but is a basis for gaining clues on which to work.

THE PSYCHOLOGY department.

ment has had instructions from the administration that the instrument is not to be used as a lie detector unless permission is received from the presidency. Students are not allowed to use the detector.

"BYU is using it as a research device machine," said Wilkinson, "and the machine does not detect lies or record them. It records certain changes in the body under the stimulus of a strong emotional state. Emotions can be detected."

Miss White was asked to answer "No" to a series of questions. Through this procedure it was evident which questions caused the most emotional stimulus.

"NOW MISS White I'm going to ask you which one of the men in this room would you like to be marooned with on a desert island." As he named each man she was to say no. The result was shown on the machine.

Wilkinson concluded, "All you can say is that on various questions there is an emotional stimulation but whether it is a lie, you can't say for sure, neither can the police, but it gives them something to work on."

Dept. Lists 2 Classes For Holiday

Techniques in Spelling and Life of the Master, along with lectures and films will be presented by the Special Courses and Institutes Department during the Christmas holiday, announced the Extension services.

Richard Anderson, assistant professor of religion, will conduct the "Life of the Master" film and lecture series, featuring movies on varying stages in the life of Christ, lectures and valuable hand-out material. Class meetings will be from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Dec. 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30 and 31.

Techniques in Spelling will be the subject matter of the class conducted by Marden Clark, assistant professor of English. This remedial course is intended for students whose difficulties with spelling are serious to interfere with their college work.

Attention will be focused on individual problems and both new and time-tested methods of study will be used to aid in the development of skill and confidence in spelling. Classes will be held 1 to 3 p.m., Dec. 23, 24, 25, 27, 30, 31.

These are the first series of non-credit courses to be offered during the Christmas holiday by the Special Courses and Institutes Department. Credit courses will not be offered during this time due to the shortness of the vacation.

Brighams Find Spar

Iowa State Breezes By Cool Cats

Couch Stan Watts' ice-cold Cougars went down before the taller but colder Iowa State Cyclones Thursday night, 45-34 in BYU home opener.

Couch Strannigan's Cyclones, who dominated both backboards by virtue of their height, tanked the first quarter when 6-3 John Crawford split the strings with a counter push shot only 30 seconds after the opening whistle.

FROM THAT time on, Iowa State was ahead, except for a brief Cat drive which saw the Brighams one point ahead after 12 minutes of play.

This lead was broken by Crawford, who was high scorer for the night with 20. Coach Watts, in an endeavor to find a workable combination, substituted freely throughout the game, but apparently no player was available who could hit consistently enough to provide the difference.

ALTHOUGH RUSS Jones and John Nicoll were powers on the defensive backboard, the difference in the score was found in the rebounding.

The Cyclones were aided more than once by the Brighams making such errors as throwing the ball at a player who was not in position. Mistakes such as these were costly to the unseasoned Wattmen.

IOWA STATE actually hit a lower percentage from the field than the Cats, but they tried 31 shots more than the home team. Iowa State had 22 percent of 61 shots, compared with 28 percent of 50 for the Cats.

First half scoring found BYU with four field goals after more than fifteen minutes of play as the ice cold cougars sought to jell an offensive punch.

Treu Leads Cougar Past Portland, 63-57

by Jerry Cunningham
Daily Universe Sports Editor

Coach Stan Watts, desperately searching for a sparkplug to lead his inexperienced Cougars, came up with a "Treu" one Saturday night.

Bill Treu, a spindly six-foot sophomore, was high scorer with 19 points, led the rebounding with 10, turned in a whirlwind floor game and all but killed himself in the process as BYU won its first home game of the season, beating Portland, 63-57.

AFTER BYU's miserable showing against Iowa State Thursday, Watts juggled his lineup, installing the hustling forward into the starting five, and he came through like a "Treu" competitor.

Treu was "Mr. College Try" Saturday night. He came crashing to the floor three times, twice requiring the aid of linemen Rod Kimball, and climaxed a night of "gymnastics" by running headlong into the screen. When Watts pulled Treu out of the game late in the second half, the 6,000 partisan fans gave him a resounding ovation. When the dust had finally cleared, Treu was in the health center.

Still ragged on the edges, BYU was a different team from the tense, sloppy outfit that lost to the Cyclones.

John (School Boy) Nicoll, the colorful All-American junior college transfer, rebounded well and scored 10 points while the Cougars struggled.

Don Volpi, by far the man on the team, added by giving the Cougars the speed, belt-hauling, defensive qualities lost when Andy Anderson graduated.

COMING OFF the bench in the second half, guard accounted for the hams' last ten points in the game.

Rounding out the guard Russ Peterson added en points to the win while playing a head-on game. Jumpin' Jack also chipped in seven, by Lynn Gleave with 11.

Mac Madsen, Gary Mac John, Gustin had two. Mel Wilkes, a starting guard had a cold night at getting just one point.

PORTLAND had a prototype in Art Chapman came off the bench made the first half to straight points and led to a 32-30 lead at the end of the first half.
